Mrs. Glenn Fuller Taken in Death at Home in Lancaster

Leaves Husband and Three Sons To Mourn Her Passing

---

Lesta Fuller was born June 16, 1879, near Flat Rock, Illinois, the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillippi. On August 14, 1901, she became the wife of Glenn Fuller, and in 1918 she came with her husband and children to the Antelope Valley. February 9, 1935, she suffered the loss of her only daughter, Golden, and the months that followed brought her failing health and waning strength. She passed away at her home in Lancaster on the evening of Sunday, November 3, 1935.

In but one phase of life does the spirit of mankind rise to heights of sublime glory—motherhood. Lesta Fuller was the personification, the reality, of all the sacred ideals of the eternal mother of man. Transcending the world of difficulties and obstacles, her unflinching spirit of patience, tolerance, kindness and hope led her loved ones securely down through the many toilsome years. An affectionate wife and perfect mother, she found her greatest pleasure and happiness in the loving devotion she lavished on her family, refusing to allow social distractions to encroach on the great purpose to which she had dedicated her life. Flowers were her fondest diversion, and under her expert care, they grew and bloomed to brighten the days with gorgeous splendor, reflecting in their glory some of the spirit of the loving hands that tended them.

Bereaved of the precious companionship and love of his wife and mother remain her husband, Glenn, and three sons, Escoe, Austin and Mort. Surviving also are her father, Joseph Phillippi, and her brothers and sisters, Lily, Mart, Jeannette, Raymond, Rosalie, and James, all of Illinois, and Chester, of Lancaster.
